Blake Mensing (Champion)	$570K est. (low conf.)	5 attorneys	3	Unstated (15% default)	Northampton, MA

Dominant Buying Motive: AI-FORWARD OPERATING MODEL / RETENTION

Blake wants to prove CFS can become a modern, AI-run firm before his October contract decision — and the firm-level need is freeing partners from admin work that is costing billable hours and clients.

"Partners are a bottleneck, wasting billable hours on admin (e.g., drafting licensing/service agreements) and causing client attrition."

"Blake's contract expires in October; he is also considering a move to an AI-forward firm."

"Blake receives unpredictable, handwritten paychecks, sometimes weeks late."

What he wants:

- Prove the AI-forward move before his October contract decision.
- Get partners out of admin work — drafting is costing billable hours and clients.
- Real financial visibility — his own pay is manual and sometimes weeks late.
- A firm that runs itself — not more leads, but less dependence on 4 partners.

What is stopping him:

- No admin/ops staff. Partners absorb 100% of non-legal work.
- No formal AI policy. Only ad hoc ChatGPT/Claude use, no firm-wide rollout.
- No financial visibility. No profit tracking; payroll itself is informal.
- The October clock is already running. A hard external deadline.

Why This AI Package

What it does for him:

- Puts a dedicated Fractional CTO in charge of the rollout — Blake doesn't manage it himself.
- Turns Blake's own local-LLM experiment into a firm-wide, supported system.

Fractional CTO Level 1 (AI Accelerator) | $3,297/mo bundled

- Revenue est. $570K clears the $500K LAW floor; firm is not solo (5 attorneys), so LAW is not excluded.
- Blake's own local-LLM build makes him an adopter, not a skeptic to convince.
- Stated call focus is explicitly the AI Workforce platform — the actual product asked for, not an upsell.
- Foundation Sprint ($14,997 bundled w/ L1, vs. $19,997 standalone) gets first Skills live in 90 days.

Why This Coaching Package

What it does for him:

- Builds the SOPs/delegation framework that turn "we have AI now" into a firm that runs differently.
- Builds a real profit plan — first read on what each practice area pays per hour.

Elite Coach Plus | $3,200/mo bundled

- Revenue band ($400K-$1M) and team under 5 point to Elite Coach Plus, not Master's Circle.
- Coach Essentials/Essentials Plus are eliminated products — not eligible regardless of revenue.
- Not named on the call, but the firm-level DBM (partners bottlenecked on admin) is what its SOP work addresses.
- Combined investment ($6,497/mo) is well under the 35% of revenue cap (~$16,625/mo).

Why This Ad Spend

What it does for him:

- Nothing to project this phase — marketing wasn't the subject of this call, so no ad spend is proposed.
- Once AI + coaching are in place, marketing can be scoped separately — CFS has a genuine wide-open paid-search gap worth revisiting.

Recommended Ad Spend Range:

- Not applicable this phase — no marketing package is being recommended. Revisit at Growth Roadmap Phase 3.

Estimated Return on Investment:

- N/A this phase — no ad spend recommended.

All figures are estimates. Not guaranteed.

How the range was calculated:

- Not part of this call's scope — stated focus is the AI Workforce platform; marketing was never raised in the transcript.
- Total spend this phase: $6,497/mo in AI + coaching fees only — 0% ad spend, well under the 35% cap.

If He Pushes Back

"Why isn't marketing part of this proposal?"

Marketing wasn't the subject of this call. Blake's own ask was a custom AI Workforce plan — deliverables, roadmap, pricing, timeline — and no marketing gap was raised on the discovery call.

"Can the firm afford $6,497/mo given how informal our finances are?"

$6,497/mo is under 14% of the firm's estimated $47,500/mo revenue run rate, well under the 35% cap. Elite Coach Plus's profit-plan work is built specifically to fix the financial visibility problem driving this concern.

"Is a Fractional CTO overkill for a firm this size?"

Partners are already at capacity on billable work and admin. A done-with-you Fractional CTO means no one has to personally manage the rollout — the alternative, DIY-only AI Essentials, assumes spare bandwidth this firm doesn't have.

"How do we protect attorney-client privilege with AI tools?"

Blake flagged this directly — confirm zero data retention and anonymization details with the implementation team ahead of the call. This is the exact question the Foundation Sprint's security review is scoped to answer.
