Prospect Snapshot

Owner	Revenue	Team	Stage	Close Rate	Location
Kristen Duffy (attorney, CPA)	~$900K (fee model not stated)	5 with owner	Stage 3	Not stated	Chicago, IL (Loop)

Dominant Buying Motive: FREEDOM

Kristen wants a firm that runs without her so she can finally unplug for a real vacation.

> "I haven't had a true vacation since 2016."

> "I just would love to not be connected to my phone or my computer for a week."

> "How about I do 20 percent of the work and the other 80 percent I can delegate to other competent attorneys…"

What she wants:

- A real break. Phone and laptop off for a week, then two weeks.
- To delegate most of the work. She would keep about 20 percent.
- Her personal phone left alone. Clients should stop texting her directly.
- An attorney hire she can trust. Revenue is not the goal; sustainability is.

What is stopping her:

- Everything goes through her. "I'm still very owner-dependent."
- Calls land on her. Website bookings and client texts reach her, not the team.
- Hiring fears. Trusting a hire, training them for years, and the "Duffy Law" name.
- Billing is behind. She said she is not looking at whether the firm is profitable.
- Past skepticism. After earlier SMB emails she wondered if she got duped.

Why This Operations Package

What it does for her:

- Builds the roles and review steps so work stops routing back to Kristen.
- Plans the associate hire and onboarding so it is not a gamble.
- Turns a week unplugged, then two, into a plan instead of a hope.

FCOO Advisor | $3,797/mo stand-alone

- Seller override (Slack, 11/4): replaces the rules pick of Elite Coach Plus.
- One bundle-eligible product, so no bundle. A second one would drop FCOO to $3,297.
- Confidence is low: $900K is stated gross. Confirm collected revenue before the call.
- Includes group coaching. You told her "coaching or fractional COO" on the call.

Why No Marketing Or Ad Spend

What this does for her:

- Fixes capacity first, so new leads do not land on a full desk.
- Keeps the proposal on what she asked about: delegation, hiring, burnout.

Why it is left out:

- She is at capacity. "I just can't do it also." She turns work away.
- No lead gap. She did not ask for marketing, ads, or SEO help.
- Website plan exists. Her own developer is revamping it by year end.
- No ad spend, ROI projection, or ad-range math applies. Spend is $3,797/mo, 5.1% of monthly revenue.

Free wins to lead with now:

- Have the admin screen booked calls; move client texts to a firm number.
- Fix Avvo and Yelp categories: estate planning is missing from Avvo.

If She Pushes Back

"How much does this cost?"

She asked and you gave a $2K-$7K range, saying she would not hit the high end. FCOO Advisor is $3,797/mo, about 5% of monthly revenue, under the 35% cap.

"I'm not really sure what it is."

She said this about her earlier SMB contact and was "so frazzled." Lead with her words: the vacation, the 20/80 split, the phone. Skip the case-study multiples.

"Hiring someone costs too much and they may leave."

She called a trained associate who leaves "a three hundred and fifty thousand dollar investment that went nowhere." The FCOO defines the role, success measures, and onboarding first.

"I'm too busy for coaching and meetings."

Her review queue and calls are the time sink. The first work is moving intake and review off her desk, which gives hours back.
