Dominant Buying Motive: LEADERSHIP

She wants to become a leader in her industry by growing estate planning steadily, without risking the firm's reputation.

> "definitely don't want to retire. I'm only 43. So I'd like to become a leader in the industry"

> "Nothing in particular, just the fact that, why not? ... why wouldn't we grow?"

> "a slower growth would be more important to me"

What she wants:

- Estate planning and probate growth. She wants them "as large as we've grown the real estate side."
- 25% more revenue. About $250K a year, taking the firm to roughly $1.25M.
- Predictable, gradual growth. Hire people and expand office space as work arrives.
- A return she can see. Spend depends on cases coming in. She wants to start by January 1.

What is stopping her:

- Budget gap. She thinks $4-6K/mo ad spend is high and was thinking $2-4K.
- Website control. A past IT company would not return the firm's domain name.
- Tech comfort. She says they are not very tech savvy and wants to consult her IT provider.
- Pace and capacity. The team can easily add about four files a month; she fears growing too fast.
- No targets. She and David have not set specific revenue or profit goals.

Why This Marketing Package

What it does for her:

- Gives her a source of estate planning clients she controls, not just referrals.
- Lets her start with one practice area and grow at her own pace.
- Makes the firm visible in Google and AI search for the work she wants to grow.

Full Service Marketing - Essentials | $3,797/mo (stand-alone price)

- Seller override: Essentials only, no coaching, priced stand-alone, so there is no bundle savings.
- Essentials is normally hidden here: multiple practice areas, revenue over $750K, PI secondary. Confirm approval.
- Lowest marketing tier fits her budget concern. It includes 5,000 words of launch content and one GBP.
- Site was rebuilt within a year (Lighthouse mobile 65, desktop 89), but she is open to a redesign.

Why This Ad Spend

What it does for her:

- Puts the firm in front of people searching for wills, trusts, and probate help in Nassau County.
- Produces cost-per-client numbers so she can decide on more spend based on return.

Recommended Ad Spend Range:

- Conservative: $7,500/mo - estate planning minimums, held at the Essentials cap.
- Aggressive: $7,500/mo - the 20% rule calls for more, but the Essentials cap applies.

Estimated Return on Investment:

- Conservative: 9.1 cases x $4.5K = $40.9K/mo vs. $7.5K spend = 5.5x return.
- Aggressive: 10.9 cases x $4.5K = $49.1K/mo vs. $7.5K spend = 6.5x return.

All figures are estimates. Not guaranteed. Close rate is a 15% default; case value is her ~$4,500 simple will probate.

How the range was calculated:

- Conservative: Estate planning minimums: PPC $3,500 + LSA $2,000 + Meta $1,200 = $6,700, scaled to $7,500 (extra $800 to Google).
- Aggressive: $1.25M x 20% / 12 = $20,833, minus $3,797 fee = $17,036 at 1.0x. Capped at $7,500 by seller override.
- Total spend: $11,297/mo = 13.6% of $1M revenue. Under the 35% cap. Her $2-4K ask sits below this.

If She Pushes Back

"Four to six seems a bit high. I was thinking more like two to four."

Confirm the $7,500 with sales-ops first. She said she is not opposed to $4K if it brings three or four cases. At $4K the same math gives about 5-6 estimated cases.

"We had an IT company that would not give us back our domain name."

The site is WordPress and the firm keeps the admin login, as you told her. Invite her IT provider to the next call. Do not name mirabellalawgroup.com as hers; ownership is unconfirmed.

"A slower growth would be more important to me."

The plan starts with estate planning only, PI comes later, and spend can be paced. The model shows more than her four-files-a-month pace, so set expectations early.
