Dominant Buying Motive: LEGACY / FIRM CONTINUITY

Kurt wants Hepworth Holzer positioned ahead of competitors and technologically current so the firm's younger partners inherit a strong, forward-facing practice — not a personal time-back or exit motive.

"to avoid falling behind competitors and ensure a strong future for the firm's younger partners"

"immediately handle an influx of up to 50 new cases"

What he wants:

- Stay ahead of the market. Claim the ChatGPT/AI-search channel before a competitor does.
- Protect the firm for the next generation. Hand the younger partners a firm that's ahead.
- Win more premium litigation. Shift case mix toward trucking and auto.

What is stopping him:

- No attribution. Can't tell which channel produced any given case.
- Untargeted first AI-ad test. No radius/keyword targeting — 5 poor-fit inquiries.
- Everything runs through Kurt. No dedicated marketing/ops role named on the call.
- NAP inconsistency. Three different phone numbers are suppressing local rank.

Why This Marketing Package

What it does for him:

- Puts real targeting and attribution behind the ChatGPT ad instinct he already had.
- Closes the trucking/auto content gap against Feller & Wendt and Litster Frost.

Full Service Marketing — Growth | $7,497/mo bundled

- ChatGPT ad consult, not a standard audit — lead with that framing, not "your marketing is broken."
- Revenue estimated $1.98M (HubSpot band) — squarely in the $1M-$2M Growth tier.
- Includes AI-readiness content — the literal fix for the untargeted ChatGPT ad test.

Why This Coaching Package

What it does for him:

- Gives marketing and ops a home outside of Kurt personally running every new test.
- Builds the accountability structure the next generation of partners will inherit.

Elite Coach Plus | $3,200/mo bundled

- 6 attorneys, no dedicated ops/marketing/intake staff — Master's Circle excluded regardless of headcount.
- Includes weekly group coaching, practice area masterminds, quarterly + annual workshops.

Why This Ad Spend

What it does for him:

- Turns the firm's existing $4K/mo self-run PPC into a properly targeted, measured system.
- Lets the firm prove which channel is actually winning the premium trucking/auto cases it wants.

Recommended Ad Spend Range:

- Conservative: $10,000/mo — PI High-competitiveness floor (Boise PI CPCs run $50-$75/click).
- Aggressive: $40,000/mo — within the Growth tier's $50,000 ad spend cap.

Estimated Return on Investment:

- Conservative: ~2 cases x $7.5K = ~$16.9K/mo vs. $10K spend = ~1.7x return.
- Aggressive: ~13-14 cases x $7.5K = ~$101K/mo vs. $40K spend = ~2.5x return.

All figures are estimates using default case value ($7.5K, not stated on call) and default 15% close rate. Not guaranteed.

How the range was calculated:

- Conservative: PI High-competitiveness floor $10,000, blended CPL ~$677 (Search/LSA mix, +20% cushion).
- Aggressive: 20% rule on 2x revenue default, Tier 4 Boise — capped at Growth tier's $40K-$50K ceiling.
- Total at aggressive: $50,697/mo (mgmt + ads) ≈ 30.7% of estimated revenue. Under the 35% cap.

If He Pushes Back

"I thought this call was about the ChatGPT ad, not full marketing."

It still is — Growth tier's AI-answer-engine content is the missing piece the ChatGPT ad needed, plus the attribution to prove it works.

"Our reviews already beat Litster Frost — why isn't that showing up?"

Review count isn't the gap — content depth and paid presence in trucking/auto is. Feller & Wendt and Litster Frost both have dedicated truck-accident pages.

"Our first ChatGPT ad test didn't really work."

5 inquiries with zero targeting is a targeting problem, not a channel problem. Only ~3% of attorneys nationwide are on ChatGPT — the window is still open.
