Dan Riggs	Not stated	3	3	Not stated	Las Vegas, NV

Dominant Buying Motive: SCALE AND DOMINATE

Dan wants to build the leading consumer bankruptcy firm in the Las Vegas valley and keep helping people along the way.

> "that's really what it came down to is I missed helping people."

> "over time, I'd like to become the firm in this valley."

> "I'm missing this opportunity right now while I'm small to simply create the right process so it just builds naturally going forward."

What he wants:

- A 50-case-a-month firm. He files about 20-25 a month and wants 50 within a year.
- Leads that become clients. He sees leads slip through the cracks.
- A process that builds itself. He wants it built now, while the firm is small.

What is stopping him:

- No follow-up system. If a lead does not sign that day, the team moves on in a day or two.
- Ad hoc intake. Dan, the paralegal and the receptionist all handle leads informally.
- No time. He is so busy he struggles to find time to build the process.
- Tight budget. Coaching "feels like a lot to invest in right now."

Why This Marketing Package

What leaving it out does for him:

- Keeps the plan on what he asked about: intake and follow-up.
- Fixes conversion before paying for more leads.
- Keeps total cost small and clear for a price-sensitive client.

No marketing package | $0/mo (call-purpose override)

- He said "it's a good problem that more people are inquiring than we're able to capture."
- He runs Google Ads and pays two per-lead vendors. No agency contract was stated.
- His "first two buckets" comment was hedged; he then agreed intake comes first.

Why This Coaching Package

What it does for him:

- Gives him a coach to build a follow-up routine for leads that do not sign right away.
- Lets him learn from other law firm owners while the firm is small.
- Fits a firm that opened this year at the lowest standalone coaching price.

Coach Essentials Plus | $2,497/mo standalone

- Revenue not stated. HubSpot range is $180K-$960K; the system used about $570K. Confirm it.
- The revenue table points to Elite Coach Plus at $3,200/mo. The budget override moved it down.
- Seller approved standalone pricing at $2,497/mo: no bundle discount and $0 savings.

Why No Ad Spend

What leaving it out does for him:

- Keeps every dollar on fixing follow-up before spending more to bring leads in.
- Leaves room to revisit marketing once follow-up is working.

Ad spend and ROI:

- No ads package is recommended, so no ad spend range or ROI projection was calculated.
- The 10x ROI line ($2,500 vs. $25,000/mo lost) was the rep's math, not Dan's. Do not present it as measured.
- Dan's own estimates are hedged: "maybe up to 20%" lost, "as high as 10 a month." Treat them as upper bounds.
- Case values: Chapter 7 is a $2,000 fee (about $1,500 after costs). Chapter 13 is about $4,500.

Verify before the call:

- Google ratings and review counts for Riggs and competitors are unconfirmed. None are in the client report.
- PageSpeed scores were not obtained. GBP, 3-pack, Ads, LSA and Meta Ad Library were not observed.
- Phase 3 mentions AI Workforce Pro. Confirm Legal AI Workforce delivery has launched first.
- Revenue is unconfirmed. Under $300K needs scoping approval; under $250K confirm 4 months of funds.

If He Pushes Back

"I don't have a ton of money right now. Am I too early for this?"

Start with his own words: coaching "feels like a lot… not bringing in more business yet." Coach Essentials Plus is one flat $2,497/mo and the lowest standalone coaching option. He already pays about $100 and $40 per vendor lead that can go unfollowed.

"Won't the price keep going up as you add phases?"

Today's price is $2,497/mo and nothing else. Phases 2 and 3 in the report are optional, priced separately, and only come up if the numbers support them.

"Can't I just figure this out myself with Practice Panther?"

He said Practice Panther is great after clients retain, and that he is so busy he struggles to find time to build the lead process. Coaching gives him a coach and a routine to follow. It does not replace his tools.
