Dominant Buying Motive: NOT STATED

No motive was stated on this call. Ask what the firm should make possible for her before the proposal call.

> "I don't wanna get rid of you, Dan. You brought me back."

> "So, end of the month is right here, Dan."

What she wants:

- To stay with SMB Team. She told Dan, "You brought me back."
- To review her agreement. She asked to meet tomorrow at 4 pm Central.
- To join the Marco Island event. She is trying to make Dec 3-5.
- Her business goals are unknown. Revenue, goal and lead sources never came up.

What is stopping her:

- No objections stated. No budget limit or vendor contract came up on this call.
- Slow mobile site. Mobile PageSpeed is 67; desktop is 99.
- Reviews unverified. Her Google count reads 103, 149 or 153 by source; verify live.
- Thin ad tracking. No Meta pixel in the homepage code; GTM contents not checked.
- Mixed listings. Yelp says Divorce & Family Law; the site lists two phone numbers.

Why This Marketing Package

What it does for her:

- Puts her website, local SEO and ads under one team instead of several vendors.
- Turns three practice areas into a steady, measurable flow of consultations.
- Adds tracking and retargeting that may be missing today.

Full Service Marketing - Starter | $4,997/mo bundled

- HubSpot revenue band $500K-$1M (not stated by her) points to Starter.
- Personal injury and multiple practice areas rule out Essentials.
- Seller override on Oct 28 removed Elite Coach Plus; marketing only.
- This was a coaching call, not marketing discovery. Confirm this matches her earlier agreement in HubSpot.

Why No Coaching Package

What to know before the call:

- The seller removed Elite Coach Plus from this proposal on Oct 28.
- She is already on a coaching call with Michael Kruchko; do not oversell coaching.
- Phase 2 and 3 in the report preview FCOO, FCFO, bookkeeping and Legal AI Workforce only as future steps, with no prices.
- Confirm Legal AI Workforce delivery has launched before you discuss it.

Why This Ad Spend

What it does for her:

- Puts the firm in front of people searching for a Birmingham lawyer right now.
- Lets her start at a lower spend and scale as the results show.

Recommended Ad Spend Range:

- Conservative: $7,500/mo - minimum viable spend; matches the PI floor.
- Aggressive: $16,500/mo - the most the 35% cap allows after the fee.

Estimated Return on Investment:

- Conservative: ~5.3 cases x ~$4.2K = ~$22.3K/mo vs. $7.5K spend = ~3.0x return.
- Aggressive: ~14 cases x ~$4.2K = ~$58.9K/mo vs. $16.5K spend = ~3.6x return.

All figures are estimates. Not guaranteed. Assumes 15% close rate, default case values and an even split across 3 practice areas.

How the range was calculated:

- Conservative: PI medium-competition hard floor = $7,500. Channel minimums for all 3 areas would total more; paid ads team to review.
- Aggressive: No goal stated; 2x $750K = $1.5M x 20% ÷ 12 = $25,000. Tier 4 (1.00x) = $25,000. Minus $4,997 fee = $20,003. Over cap, cut to $16,500.
- Total at aggressive: $21,497/mo = 34.4% of est. revenue ($62,500/mo, HubSpot midpoint). Under the 35% cap. Confirm revenue.

If She Pushes Back

"I already have an agreement. Why is this different?"

Check HubSpot first. Confirm this proposal matches what she, Gabby and Dan reviewed. Dan mentioned an end-of-month promotion; confirm its terms before quoting.

"I am already in coaching with Michael."

Coaching shapes how the firm runs. This audit points to the site, local profile and tracking: mobile 67 vs desktop 99, no Meta pixel in the homepage code. Marketing fills the pipeline.

"Why spend $7,500 or more on ads?"

Start at $7,500 and scale. The estimate is ~3.0x on default case values, so ask her real numbers. Revill, Harris and Farris Riley & Pitt show in Birmingham roundups; their ads and review counts were not verified.
